PracticeOne and Syntegra^{MD} Announce End-to-End EHR, Management and Lab Solution for Hundreds of Doctors Over the Next 12 Months

Unique Partnership Will Deliver Comprehensive Turnkey EHR Solutions to Hundreds of Practices in the Next Year

Piscataway, NJ--September 21, 2009-- PracticeOne, a leading developer of Electronic Health Records (EHR) and other healthcare information technology, and Syntegra^{MD}, a leading provider of turnkey technology and management solutions for medical practices, have announced a unique partnership to deliver end-to-end solutions to hundreds of practices over the next 12 months.

By joining forces, PracticeOne and Syntegra^{MD} will deliver true end-to-end solutions to medical practices that will integrate the PracticeOne EHR and additional components of its suite of software applications (Electronic Health Records, Practice Management, Patient Access Portal, and Electronic Prescribing) with Syntegra^{MD} services for office and lab management. Syntegra value-added services include telephony solutions and comprehensive infrastructure and management services as well as comprehensive diagnostic and imaging labs services from ENIGMA Labs.

Together, the two companies will provide medical practices with one "go to" source for diagnostic and imaging laboratory results, communications, and Electronic Health Records, all supported end-to-end from implementation through on-going management. As a result, practices can get up and running faster with the technology and communications they need, save money and time, and be assured that they can depend on one provider over time.

"Whereas practices now must deal with multiple vendors to get the products and services they need, the PracticeOne/Syntegra^{MD} Alliance gives practices one source, one point of contact, one provider to depend on from day one." Said Jerry Gordon, President of Syntegra^{MD}, "We'll take care of the infrastructure and management, and doctors and staff members can get back to the practice of medicine."

"We are excited to be working with Syntegra^{MD} to deliver the most comprehensive electronic health records and practice management solutions available to medical practices." Said Hank Cohn, CEO of PracticeOne, "We anticipate hundreds of practices to sign up over the next year and over time for this model to become the standard for the industry."
